

MAINTAIN SHADE TREES

Shade trees act as a buffer to extreme weather, including heat, snow and wind. They also host a suite of local birds.

In one year, a mature tree will absorb more than 22 kilograms of carbon from the atmosphere and release oxygen in exchange.

GARDENING IN A CHANGING CLIMATE